

Lab 9.4: Partitioning a Real Hard Disk

If you have real hard disk un-partitioned space available, experiment with fdisk to create new partitions, either primary or logical within an extended partition. Write the new partition table to disk and then format and mount the new partitions.